Matt Taylor previews tonight's match against UTS Olympic.

After an encouraging start to the Ericsson Cup season, Canberra Cosmos look on track to record their first win against UTS Olympic at Bruce Stadium tonight. With draws against Sydney United and Sth Melbourne over the past two weeks, it appears the Cosmos machine is oiling itself for better things as the 33 game season unfolds.

It is positioned 10th on the ladder with two points, but have a game in hand against the embattled Wollongong Wolves outfit, who have yet to register a point in their national league campaign. Cosmos coach Michael Lyons will have a difficult task of deciding who to leave out of his first team for tonight's game against Olympic, who are fifth on the ladder with seven points.

It is a position he is unaccustomed to, but one which should yield results. He can now mould a line up for a team like Olympic, which will relentlessly attack irrespective of the score on the board.

But Lyons said he may not start his latest recruit Norman Kelly tonight. After a long season with Brunei in the Malaysian League, Lyons feels Kelly might need a week's rest to recharge his batteries.

"He's a quality player, but I am undecided as to whether I'll start him or not", Lyons said. "Aside from that I am in a good position with my team selection as I now have all the Deakin players available, and with the inclusion of Kelly and the team is really starting to play as a unit, we should go well on Saturday night."

"All my squad of 20 are in contention for the first team, and I think that is a very healthy situation to be in". Lyons suggested he would start with the two Canberra Deakin dynamos, Tony Lemezina and Marko Perinovic, up front, with Lachlan Armstrong, who returns from suspension to roam behind the forwards. Despite a 2-2 draw against South Melbourne, which Cosmos should have wrapped up mid-way through the second stanza. It can take solace from the fact it recorded its first goals of the season through defenders Paul Dee and Jason Dunn.

Olympic have scored six goals this season, with Kris Trajanovski leading the way with two superb strikes, but its defence has a question mark on it after conceding six goals.

Olympic coach Dave Ratcliffe has recruited a number of quality players, he has resurrected the career of Kimon Taliadoras, who faded into the footballing wilderness last year after promising so much earlier in his career. But don't expect Taliadoras to be a linchpin to Olympic attack tonight. Its chief destroyer could be Olyroo Peter Tskenis who has been in sparkling form during his side's opening four fixtures.

From the LYONS Den

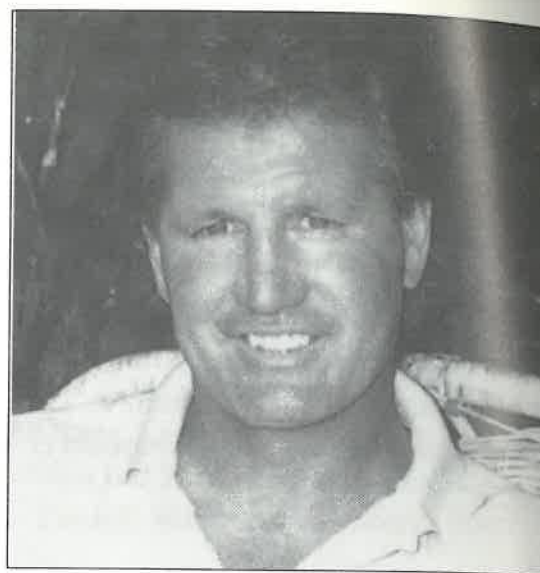

It has been a pleasing last two weeks for the Canberra Cosmos. We started with a 0-0 draw against Sydney United here at Bruce Stadium, that put some critics on their heels, followed by a 2-2 draw with South Melbourne last Sunday at Olympic Park in Melbourne.

The match against Sydney United was particularly rewarding. We had been written off by the soccer press and to perform as we did and with 10 men for most of the second half is a great result for the team. I think the whole squad was very pleased with our first up effort and we owe thanks to the Canberra crowd for the support they gave us. I know that with 15 minutes remaining some of the lads were struggling, but with the crowd behind us we lifted and managed to hold on to a memorable draw. I hope that tonight you will support us in similar fashion and give UTS Olympic a taste of parochial home town support.

The side is now close to fully settled and I believe we have a squad that will test all the teams in the Ericsson Cup. Over the next few weeks I think you will see an improvement in the quality of out play as we adapt better to each other and train together as a team. Some of the younger, inexperienced players are still adjusting to the speed and intensity of the Ericsson Cup, but they are learning quickly and I hope that soon they are recognised for the talent that they have.

One issue that has been of concern to us has been the inability to put the ball in the back of the opposition's net. After three games in the Ericsson Cup we have scored only twice (both against South last week).

We haven't yet been able to create enough chances for our strikers and have been unable to sustain the pressure on opposition defences. We have however, worked hard on this element of our game at training and I am sure that our supporters can look forward to some creative play from the lads over the coming weeks. Another element of our style of play that has been focused on by the soccer media, is what they call our "rough-house tactics". Sure we play with enthusiasm and passion and have a strong physical team, but to suggest that we are too physical is a slur on all our players. We have a talented squad competing in what is ultimately a contact sport. Playing hard is what we are about. There is a great deal at stake in the Ericsson Cup and we will give nothing away to any team, but likewise expect nothing in return from our opposition.

Tonights visitors, UTS Olympic, have had a good start to the season including victories over the Melbourne Knights and Adelaide City and will, like the 11 other teams, be tough. But in saying that the team have met the challenges thrown at them and I am sure tonight will be no different.

I hope you enjoy tonights encounter, be vocal and show your support for the Cosmos, and I would like to take this opportunity to invite you all to the after match function at the Canberra Rex Hotel.

Mike Lyons.

UTS OLYMPIC - A PROFILE

Statistician, Andrew Howe takes a look at UTS Olympic.

In 1958 the Pan Hellenic Soccer Club, the forerunner to the Sydney Olympic SC was formed. The club changed its name to Sydney Olympic in 1976 when it was admitted as a foundation member of the newly formed Phillips Soccer League (PSL) that commenced in 1977. The club was relegated back to the NSW first division in 1979, but was readmitted to the National Soccer League in 1981 and has been there ever since.

In stark contrast to its first four years in national competition, Olympic finished in the top half of every final table competition ladder from 1982 to 1992. Highlights of this extended halcyon period included grand final losses in 1984 (to South Melbourne), 1986 (Adelaide City) and 1989 (where Marconi scored the single winning goal in the 91st minute). Olympic's long awaited moment of glory did finally arrive, on May 20 1990.

Bouyed on by a majority of a packed Parramatta Stadium audience of 26,353, Olympic resoundingly beat Marconi in the grand final 2-0. Player of the match was former Canberra boy Andrew Bernal.

Since that glorious 1989-90 season - the first season of summer soccer - Olympic have had a relatively tough time. They have reached the finals twice in the last five years, but have yet to record a finals victory since 1990. One solitary statistic reflects the downturn in Olympic's fortune over recent years. The home gate in their game against Adelaide City late last season - a measly 871 - was by far the lowest ever recorded by Olympic in the national league.

Seen by many as being lucky to survive the 1995 off season culling of several clubs from the Ericsson A League, Olympic is back with a vengeance. A prosperous new partnership with the University of Technology Sydney (UTS), the appointment of a high profile general manager Lydia Dowse and a strong start to the 1995-96 season indicates that UTS Olympic could very soon again be one of the flagships of Australian Soccer.

Andrew Howe.

He scored a memorable goal against Newcastle in the first round when he sliced through a wall of defenders on the edge of the penalty area and slotted the ball past the keeper in stylish fashion.

Ratcliffe rates Tskenis very highly. He says the attacking midfielder has been Olympic's best player this season.

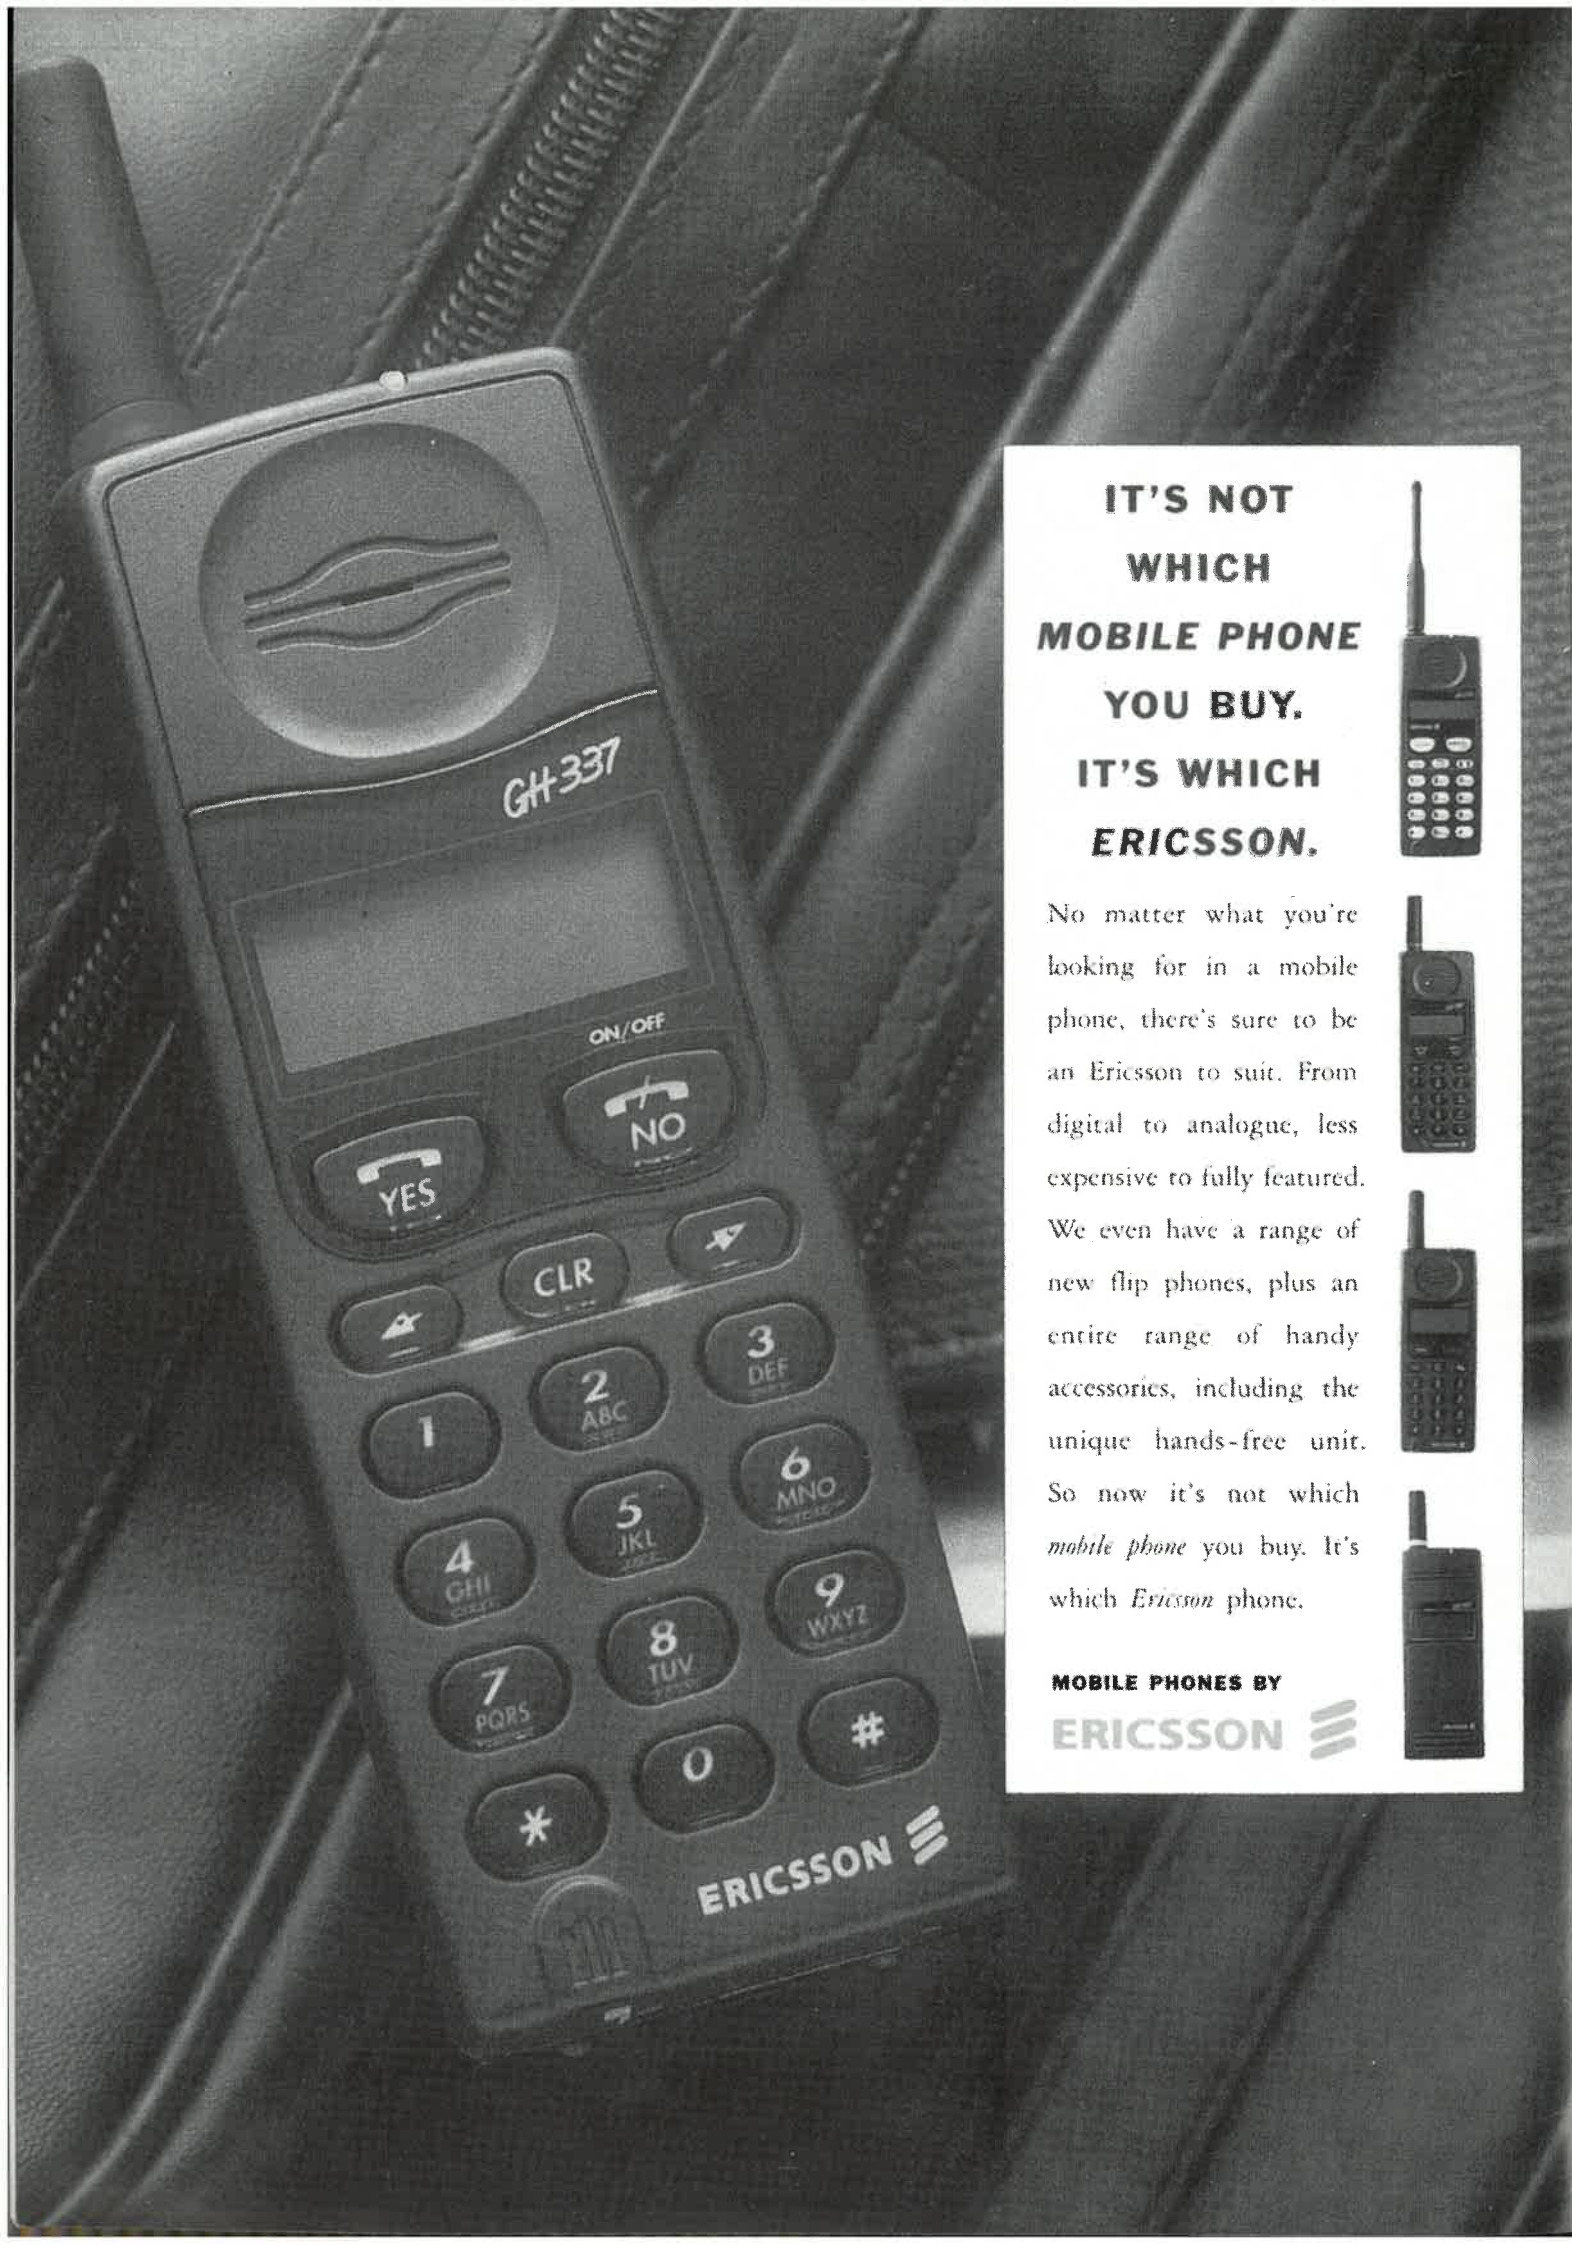

"He's looked the part for us in the opening few rounds," Ratcliffe said. "But it's not just Peter that has pleased me, it's the way the team is combining in attack and defence - that's what really pleases a coach.

"What I've seen of Canberra this year has been quite good. I'll expect a close game from them, particularly as they'll have the home ground advantage."

The game promises to be an entertaining show-case of soccer, so sit back and witness the Cosmos explode into top gear on the pitch tonight.

From The Grandstand

Chris Kunz takes a look at the Ericsson Cup and the Canberra Cosmos.

Well, were back! Saturday October 14 was a momentous day for all associated with the Canberra Cosmos. A crowd of over 5,000 and a courageous on-field performance brought back fond memories for those of us who remember the early days of Canberra City in the then Phillips Soccer League - over a decade and a half ago. How wonderful it was to see some of the old faces, but there are many more and more younger.

It may not be the Las Ramblas in Barcelona, the Champs Elysees in Paris, the Plaza de Mayo in Buenos Aires, Tiananmen Square in Beijing or even Wembley Way in London, but a stroll down Leverrier Crescent in Bruce prior to the home game is an exciting experience. Car lights streaming in through the gathering gloom, groups of chatting silhouettes converging on the entrance gates - the stadium's light towers drawing people like moths to what is seasonally, the biggest show in town.

Just how big a show a Cosmos home game has fast become is demonstrated by the possibility that tonight's match (weather permitting) could break the Ericsson Cup A League attendance record - at a time of writing held by Newcastle Breakers at 6,837.

Not bad for a team whose very existence was only ratified less than two months ago, whose players were labelled as the 'whipping boys' of the new A League and whose finances and local support were rumoured to be next to nothing.

The reality is a little different. The Canberra Cosmos have:

- * In Bruce Stadium the best home ground in the country.

- * In Paul Wade the best known Australian player.

- * Being a community-based club, the maximum potential support from the broader community.

- * The already acknowledged best playing strip (aren't some of the others boring!) as evidenced from that first home game.

- * The most vocal supporters.

While it may understandably, take a while to have the best team, the 'Canberra' chant (which I can assure rolls down the stand to crash onto the field) has and will continue to lift the team against superior opposition.

Ah, it's a new era; we're back - better than ever!
